

Three seniors enjoy jazz in their room in Boys' House

Miscellaneous Information

Health

At Windsor Mountain considerable emphasis is placed on maintaining regular hours of work, play, and sleep, in order to give the students habits vital to maintaining good health in later life.

An up-to-date infirmary located in the Main House is under the supervision of a resident nurse. Dr. Gertrude Bondy takes care of the general health of the students while the school doctor is on call at all times. Any student with a serious or contagious illness is promptly hospitalized.

Plentiful, nutritious meals are served in the attractive dining room in the Main House. They are planned by an experienced dietitian and prepared in a spotless, modern kitchen.
